It outlines our range of services, and the terms and legal basis on which we offer them. About Saranac Partners Europe

1. About Saranac Partners Europe

1.1. Saranac Partners Europe core beliefs

The Saranac Partners Europe proposition and business model is underpinned by five core beliefs:

We believe in keeping it simple

Wealth management is complicated, keeping it simple is an art. We believe that means being clear and focused.

We believe in talent

We have the best pool of multidisciplinary private client expertise in the business. We believe deeply in intellectual capital, expertise, experience and credibility. We are also creative, lateral in our thinking, responsive and proactive. Our people and culture are our alpha.

We believe in specialists

Our focus is knowing our clients and deploying expertise, creativity and resources to structure the best possible solutions. We work with partners freely and openly to do that.

We believe in the power of the network

We are flexible, but we are obsessive about quality. We believe a network is greater than any individual firm. Our network consists of other organisations who are specialists. They put more time, energy and resource into their area of focus than we could ever do, and they are the best in the world.

We believe things work better when you're all on the same side

In our firm clients, shareholders and staff are partners. We all want better client outcomes and a better firm. We aim to provide a service that clients are happy to pay for, a firm where the best professionals want to work and an enterprise that creates genuine value.

1.2. Which services do we offer?

We can engage with clients through the following investment services for which Saranac Partners Europe is authorised:

- Portfolio Management
- Investment Advisory
- Active Advisory
- Reception and Transmission of Clients' Orders
- Self-directed Investment

See Part 4 for a full description of these services.

1.3. How do we charge?

We recognise that every client has specific and different needs. We will therefore design a Bespoke Fee Profile in consultation with you. This will be agreed with you in advance of using any of our services. Our approach to fees and charging is based on the following core principles:

- Clarity and transparency
- Fiduciary alignment
- Structural flexibility

We will agree one or more of the charging methods and structures based on the services you require and your individual circumstances and preferences. More details can be found in the Schedule of Fees and Charges which your Client Advisor will provide to you along with this document.

1.4. Custodian services

Where you have chosen an investment service you need to appoint a custodian for the safe keeping of your assets. For further detail please see below and refer also to Part 7 Terms of Business Sections 5.2 and 5.3.

Saranac Partners Europe has existing bilateral contractual arrangements with two custodian banks based in Luxembourg; Bank Julius Baer Europe S.A (“JB”) and UBS Europe SE, Luxembourg branch (“UBS”). The JB and UBS custodian agreements are governed by Luxembourg law and are under the jurisdiction of the courts in Luxembourg (although UBS retains the right to use the courts of any relevant jurisdiction with regard to the business activity concerned). A summary of the key terms of our agreements with JB and UBS are set out at the end of this section.

Please note that we are also required by custodians to inform you of their independence from us i.e. that we and they have separate duties and responsibilities towards you and that there is no supervisory function from them to us or from us to them. In summary, we are responsible for advising and/or managing your account as per the terms of our engagement with you, by instructing trades to the relevant custodian in relation to your account for you. Custodians are not responsible for making those trading decisions but they are responsible for executing the trades in a timely manner and as per our instructions. The custodians are also responsible for custodying your assets. Saranac Partners Europe does not act as a custodian representative, agent or appointee.

Please note that there are also procedures put in place by custodians as between us and them, for ensuring that data protection rules both within and outside of Europe are complied with. There are also detailed protocols that govern our respective responsibilities to ensure that security and confidentiality is maintained and that there is correct and careful usage of online or remote authenticated systems for trading. There are also detailed protocols around compliance with the regulations around financial crime, for example client identification as part of the account onboarding process. It is therefore extremely important that we receive your full cooperation, accuracy and transparency with regard to all aspects of the onboarding process for example, VAT status, certification of documents including passports and corporate resolutions. Please also note that custodians require us to inform you that they do not perform suitability or appropriateness checks on the transactions that we instruct to them on your behalf – we are responsible for this (please see Part 3 Guide to suitability and appropriateness assessment below).

You will liaise with your Client Advisor as to your preference to engage with JB or UBS or whether you prefer to request to use another custodian. Your Client Advisor will then confirm whether Saranac Partners Europe is able to engage with the custodian you select and any specific requirements in order to facilitate this arrangement.

You will need to enter into a set of legal services agreements including the main framework document which is usually named “General Business Conditions” with your selected custodian for the provision of custody and trade execution services. Saranac Partners Europe can assist you with the opening of the necessary accounts with your preferred custodian. Please note that you will be required by the custodian to sign opening account documentation in the form of legal agreements and you will be legally liable to the custodian under those agreements in your own capacity and will not be able to pass that liability on to us. Please also note that as part of the set of legal agreements, you will be required to sign a Power of Attorney, in our favour, to enable us to manage your account. Once you have signed the necessary documentation, you will become a client of your selected custodian (as well as Saranac Partners Europe) and as such you will be liable to the custodian and you will also remain liable to us under our terms of engagement with you.

Full details of the services provided including the relevant risk warnings, as well as the liabilities and indemnities and duties and responsibilities of all parties will be contained within the documentation that your custodian will provide to you. Please also note that if you permit the use of derivatives on your account that you will receive derivatives specific disclosures from the custodians including detail around the sufficiency of collateral and the terms upon which the custodian may make margin calls and the consequences if your account does not have sufficient assets. Please note that Saranac Partners Europe is also obligated to provide you with proper information about the risks of certain transactions (please see Part 6 Investment Risks and Restrictions below).

Please also note that Saranac Partners Europe is obligated to inform custodians of exact trade allocations within the requisite timeframes and if we fail to provide correct information or fail to adhere to timelines we could be liable to them, in the first instance, and they could also refuse execution of an order.

Please be aware that the custodians require both your and our agreement within the respective terms of engagement such that they can comply fully with their international tax compliance and anti-money laundering obligations, as well as their regulatory obligations towards their home regulator (which in the case of JB and UBS will be the CSSF in Luxembourg).

Please note that most custodians include a 60 or 90 day notice termination provision without cause and a right to terminate immediately for cause. Custodians are obliged to cooperate fully and transparently with the transition to another custodian to ensure an orderly migration of assets. Custodians generally also retain the right, at their discretion, to end an existing relationship with a client without giving reasons.

Please note that as regards fees (which are subject to change by the Custodian on notice – your Client Advisor will liaise with you as to any fee changes) Saranac Partners Europe will produce Investment Management statements quarterly, or more frequently upon request.

These statements will be delivered via the internet portal and you will be notified of their availability via email. Your custodian will also provide you with custody statements separately which will contain each fee as a separate line item e.g. management, transaction, loan or administration fees as well as custodian fees. Custody rates or fees are set out as a single entry and the transaction fees are broken down within the trade advice. Saranac also supplies Costs and Charges information on an annual basis that will itemise the charges in the form of the total aggregate amounts per classification so that you have full transparency around remuneration and fees charged as well as costs and expenses.

Please be aware that some custodians may require you to place all transactions with the custodian's nominated trading partner(s). Where this is the case you agree to accept that this may impact the range of products we have access to and will impact our ability to achieve best execution in line with our Execution Policy as all such transactions will be treated as directed transactions.

JB

Saranac Partners Europe has entered into a series of agreements with JB dealing with online servicing and permitted users, data delivery, fees, reporting and delegation including protocols around client identification for anti-money laundering purposes and authentication for online accounts. We have also entered into a Framework Agreement with JB which sets out the key terms of our engagement with them. In terms of liability and indemnities, in the absence of their gross negligence or wilful misconduct we are required to indemnify JB for any liability, direct loss or reasonable expense or claim in relation to the specific terms of our engagement with them. Please note that JB retain the right to transfer your data anywhere outside the European Union specifically to Switzerland and Singapore and you hereby agree that you are aware of and agree to this right subject to their data protection disclosures.

UBS

Saranac Partners Europe has entered into a series of agreements with UBS dealing with online servicing (connect trading and UBS Transact) and permitted users, data delivery, fees, reporting and delegation including protocols around client identification for anti-money laundering purposes and authentication for online accounts. We have also entered into a Framework Agreement with UBS which sets out the key terms of our engagement with them. In terms of liability and indemnities, in the absence of their gross negligence (and for certain indemnities their breach, gross negligence or wilful misconduct) we are required to indemnify UBS for any direct damages, losses and or costs (including fines) and reasonable expenses in relation to the specific terms of our engagement with them. Specifically, we are generally liable for our fraud, misconduct, negligence or breach of obligations. Please note that UBS retain the right to transfer your data anywhere outside the European Union specifically to Switzerland, Singapore, India and Eastern Europe and to “selected third parties” and that you hereby agree that you are aware of and agree to this right subject to their data protection disclosures.

A Guide to our Client Classification Regime

1. Client classification regime

Applicable Law classifies clients in three categories that are intended to reflect their level of knowledge and experience in the financial markets, in order to provide each client with an adequate level of protection.

In accordance with the above, Saranac Partners Europe classifies its clients in one of the following categories:

- a. Retail clients: those who are not considered professional clients or eligible counterparties. Retail clients are assigned the highest degree of protection as they are presumed to have a limited knowledge and experience in financial markets.
- b. Professional clients: those who are presumed to have the necessary knowledge, experience and qualifications to make their own investment decisions and correctly assess the risks associated with them. Professional clients therefore receive a medium level of protection.
- c. Eligible counterparties: those clients who are granted the minimum level of protection as they are entities that, by their nature, operate directly in financial markets. This category only applies when providing the service of Reception and Transmission of Clients' Orders.

2. Client classification change request

You have the right to request a change in the classification initially given. You will need to request the change in writing using the standard form that Saranac Partners Europe will provide for this purpose.

Saranac Partners Europe's acceptance of this request will depend on the compliance with the legal and regulatory requirements established at any given time.

In case of a request of a change from retail to professional client, you will need to satisfy at least two of the following conditions:

- You must have carried out transactions, in significant size, on the relevant market at an average frequency of 10 per quarter over the previous four quarters;
- Your financial instrument portfolio, defined as including cash deposits and financial instruments exceeds EUR 500,000;
- You must work or have worked in the financial sector for at least one year in a professional position, which requires knowledge of the transactions or services envisaged

Once the request has been submitted, Saranac Partners Europe will inform you in writing of the new classification given, or the rejection of such request.

Elective professional clients shall not be deemed to have a level of knowledge and experience comparable to that of "per se" professional clients.

Saranac Partners Europe has the right to continue to offer its clients the highest level of protection, regardless of the assigned category.

Saranac Partners Europe is not responsible for any damages or liabilities that may arise from the inaccuracy or lack of veracity of the information that you provide when requesting a change of classification.

When a change of classification to a category with greater protection is requested, acceptance will be automatic, without the need for Saranac Partners Europe to carry out any verification.

A Guide to Suitability and Appropriateness Assessment

1. Suitability and appropriateness assessment

In accordance with Applicable Law, prior to the provision of any services, Saranac Partners Europe shall evaluate the suitability or appropriateness of the transaction or of the services.

1.1. Portfolio Management and Investment Advisory services

For the provision of these services, Saranac Partners Europe will use a questionnaire, to assess your knowledge and experience in the field, your personal financial situation (including your capability to bear losses) and your investment objectives (including your risk tolerance and your investment horizon).

Saranac Partners Europe will only recommend or purchase on behalf of the client investment products that are suitable for the client considering the suitability assessment.

1.2. Reception and Transmission of Clients' Orders

For the provision of this service, Saranac Partners Europe will assess your appropriateness for the specific type of investment products for which you are requesting this service. This assessment shall be made by means of a questionnaire, with which Saranac Partners Europe will understand your knowledge and experience in the field.

As this service is only available to clients who choose to receive another service from Saranac Partners Europe and is not offered in isolation, in practice the appropriateness assessment will be included as a part of the suitability assessment.

1.2.1. Execution only services

In accordance with the Applicable Law, Saranac Partners Europe is not obliged to carry out the appropriateness assessment provided that the following conditions are met:

- the financial instrument is classified as "non-complex" according to the Applicable Law; and
- the service is provided at the client's own initiative.

In such cases, Saranac Partners Europe will inform the client that appropriateness won't have to be assessed and that, therefore, the client will not have this protection.

Likewise, no appropriateness assessment will be necessary in the case of clients classified as professionals or eligible counterparties, as they are presumed to have the knowledge, experience and qualifications to make their own investment decisions.

2. Assessment monitoring and client's responsibility

Saranac Partners Europe will assess the suitability or, where applicable, appropriateness:

- i. At the outset of the relationship; and
- ii. in the event of any change in your personal circumstances.
- iii. in any event after 3 years

Saranac Partners Europe will send you the result of the initial assessment and agree any changes with you thereafter.

Where you fail to provide the required information or provide insufficient information, Saranac Partners Europe will not be able to provide you this service. You shall in any case be responsible for the information provided for the purposes of assessing suitability or appropriateness and must inform Saranac Partners Europe upon any change that may entail an amendment of the suitability or appropriateness' assessment made.

3. Co-ownership

In the event of the designation of several co-owners or authorized persons, the assessment will be carried out as follows:

- For the suitability assessment, on the person who appears as the first owner.
- For the appropriateness assessment, on the person who transmits each order on a case-by-case basis.

In addition, in the case of the client being a legal person, for the purposes of the assessment Saranac Partners Europe will consider the knowledge and experience of the authorised or representative person, and the financial situation and investment objectives of the legal person.

A Guide to our Internal Policies

1. Information on our Policy of Conflicts of Interest and Inducements

1.1. Conflict of Interest Policy

Entities providing investment services shall take measures to identify potential conflicts of interest between their clients and the entity itself or its group, including its directors, employees, agents or persons related to the entity, directly or indirectly, by a relationship of control; or between the different interests of two or more of its clients, to each of whom the entity has obligations.

Saranac Partners Europe has a Conflicts of Interest Policy aimed at preventing conflicts of interest from harming its clients. This allows Saranac Partners Europe to detect, prevent or, where appropriate, manage potential conflicts of interest that may arise in the provision of investment services.

This Policy therefore:

- Identifies the circumstances that, as a consequence of the provision of investment services, give or may give rise to a conflict of interest that implies a significant risk of impairing the client's interests.
- Establishes the measures to prevent the appearance of conflicts of interest.
- Specifies the procedures to be followed and the measures to be taken to manage conflicts of interest that cannot be avoided.

This Policy applies to managers, employees or persons linked to Saranac Partners Europe, directly or indirectly, by a control relationship.

When identifying whether a situation is potentially giving rise to a conflict of interest, Saranac Partners Europe takes into account, as a minimum criterion, whether Saranac Partners Europe itself, or a competent person or another person directly or indirectly linked to it through a control relationship, is in any of the following situations:

- a. Saranac Partners Europe or the particular person can obtain a financial benefit, or avoid a financial loss, at the expense of the client;
- b. It has an interest in the outcome of the service provided or the transaction carried out on behalf of the client, other than the client's own interest in that outcome;
- c. Has financial or any other type of incentive to favour the interests of third party clients, as opposed to the client's own interests;
- d. The professional activity is identical to that of the client;
- e. Receives, or is about to receive from a third party, an incentive in relation to the service provided to the client, in money, services or others, other than the usual commission or remuneration for the particular service.

Where the measures taken are not reasonably sufficient to avoid the risk of a client or group of clients being harmed, the client must be informed of the nature of the conflict and of the other circumstances that will allow him/her to make a reasoned decision about the financial instrument or investment service. Disclosure of conflicts of interest to the client may only be done by Saranac Partners Europe in the event that the other established measures have not been sufficient.

Our Conflicts of Interest Policy, which includes information on the types of conflicts which may arise as a result of providing services to you and how these are identified and managed and informed to you, is provided on our website at www.saranacpartners.com.

1.2. Information on inducements

In the provision of investment advisory, active advisory and portfolio management services, Saranac Partners Europe may not receive any fees, commissions and monetary or non-monetary benefits from third parties in connection with the provision of services to the client, i.e. inducements. Should Saranac Partners Europe identify and inadvertently receive any inducements for these services, these shall be accounted for in full to the client as soon as possible.

[Minor non-monetary benefits that are of such a nature or amount that they cannot affect Saranac Partners Europe's obligation to act honestly, fairly and professionally in the best interests of the client shall not be considered inducements.] Such minor non-monetary benefits are those set forth in the Applicable Law.

2. Information on our Execution Policy

When providing Reception and Transmission of Clients' Orders, Applicable Law requires us to take measures in order to obtain the best possible result for clients, i.e. "best execution".

Saranac Partners Europe has established an Execution Policy, which covers the mechanisms and procedures adopted for the purpose of ensuring that the execution of orders by selected financial intermediaries (brokers) is done in the best interests of their clients. This policy defines, therefore, the criteria of Saranac Partners Europe when selecting brokers responsible for executing client orders and specifies the measures and procedures to be followed for their adequate monitoring and control.

For this purpose, Saranac Partners Europe shall select the brokers that best ensure their clients' best interests, taking into account a series of qualitative and quantitative criteria. Saranac Partners Europe shall receive information to verify that the orders have been executed taking into account their respective order execution or best execution policies and the Applicable Law seeking to obtain the best possible results for clients.

Saranac Partners Europe, at the client's request, will demonstrate that it has transmitted its orders in accordance with its Execution Policy.

Where a client requests Saranac Partners Europe to transmit and execute an order following specific instructions, the provisions on best execution shall not apply, and Saranac Partners Europe shall be deemed to have fulfilled its obligation to take the required measures to obtain the best possible result for the client.

Further information about the Execution Policy is available from any of Saranac Partners Europe's communication channels.

Saranac Partners Europe shall also publish on its website, on an annual basis and for each type of financial instrument, information on the top 5 financial intermediaries to which it has transmitted client orders for execution, in terms of trading volume and information on the quality of the execution during the preceding financial year.

Investment Risks and Restrictions

1. General investment risk warnings

Trading and investing in financial products always involves risk and we want you to be well informed about the risks inherent in investments. This part of the document describes a range of investments and the risks they carry. It is not intended to be a substitute for legal or financial advice. It is your responsibility to take legal and financial advice on your particular circumstances and to satisfy yourself as to those aspects. The following risks outlined below are not exhaustive and you should be aware that other risks may apply that are not covered under this document.

1.1. Volatility of returns

The value of investments and the amount of income derived from them may go down as well as up. All investments can be affected by macro-economic market conditions, such as the interest or exchange rate environment, political factors or other factors. You may lose all capital invested.

1.2. Liquidity and non-readily realisable securities

Some investments, such as those that are not government securities, listed investments or investments that regularly trade on an exchange, may be illiquid. This means they are infrequently traded and so it may be difficult to sell them in a reasonable timeframe or at a price which reflects "fair" value. In extreme cases, you may not be able to realise your investment and could lose the whole amount invested. It may be difficult to obtain reliable independent information about the ongoing value of such an investment.

1.3. Borrowing, investment leverage or gearing

Borrowing increases the volatility and the risk of investing. This is true whether a company in which you invest has significant borrowing or whether you borrow money for the specific purpose of investing or a product borrows as a part of your investment strategy. The impact of borrowing, leverage or gearing can be as follows:

- a. Movements in the price of an investment lead to much greater volatility in the value of the leveraged position and this could lead to sudden and large falls in value;
- b. The impact of interest charges could lead to an increase in any rate of return required to break even;
- c. You may receive back nothing at all if there are large falls in the value of the investment; and,
- d. In extreme circumstances, certain products can result in a liability in excess of the amount invested.

This is particularly important when engaging in derivative or contingent liability transactions.

1.4. Contingent liability transactions (margin trading)

Contingent liability transactions may require you to make additional payments in respect of an investment account. If you trade in instruments such as futures, contracts for differences or options you may sustain a total loss of the margin you deposit with your broker to establish or maintain a position. If the market moves against you, you may be called upon to pay additional margin at short notice to maintain the position. If you fail to do so within the time required, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you may be liable for any resulting deficit. Contingent liability transactions which are not traded on or under the rules of a recognised or designated investment exchange (OTC transactions) may expose you to greater risks than those which are so traded. Saranac does not consider a forward foreign exchange transaction entered into for the purposes of hedging to be a contingent liability transaction.

1.5. Foreign exchange / currency risk

Investments denominated in foreign currencies open up additional risks related to the relevant exchange rate. Movements in exchange rates may cause the value of an investment to fluctuate either in a favourable or unfavourable manner when compared to the reference base currency.

1.6. Counterparty risk

There is a risk that a financial institution or other counterparty fails to meet its obligations and does not or cannot pay amounts due to you. This is particularly relevant where you have invested in structured products or OTC derivatives that often rely on the counterparty's ability to repay the sums owed to you under the terms of the contract. Cash held with deposit takers and the issuers of fixed income assets also give rise to counterparty risk if these entities are unable to meet their obligations to you.

1.7. Legal and tax

The tax treatment of investment products can be complex, and the level and basis of taxation may alter during the term of any product. Prospective investors should therefore obtain professional tax and legal advice appropriate to their own circumstances and the circumstances of the particular investment before and while investing.

1.8. Market suspension

In extreme circumstance an exchange may suspend trading on all or select securities traded through the exchange. In these instances, you may not be able to realise your investment at least during the period of any suspension.

1.9. Fund gating

In certain circumstances a fund may be able to limit the amount of withdrawals from a fund during a redemption period. The decision to implement a gate is at the discretion of the fund.

The purpose is normally to prevent a run on the fund which could trigger the fund manager having to sell off a large number of positions, potentially at a loss, and significantly impact the ability of the fund to operate or preserve the value of its investments. This may result in a delay in realising your investment.

1.10. Foreign markets

Transactions on markets in certain jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose you to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation, which may offer different or diminished investor protection to the markets in which you are used to investing.

1.11. Over the counter ("OTC") transactions

Transactions executed or entered into on an OTC basis are not subject to exchange rules and instead are subject to bespoke terms agreed between the parties to the transaction. It may not always be possible to clearly see if a transaction has been completed OTC rather than on an exchange. OTC investments may be hard to value, and difficult or impossible to liquidate. Therefore, these transactions carry additional risks.

1.12. Charges

Before you trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all fees and other charges for which you will be liable. These charges will affect your net profit or loss. Saranac Partners Europe will provide a Bespoke Fee Profile prior to any new service being provided to a client.

1.13. Deposited cash / assets

The protections afforded to money and assets deposited with foreign and domestic institutions can vary greatly, particularly in the event of insolvency or bankruptcy. The extent to which you may recover your money or other assets is governed by the legislation and local rules applicable to the institution in question. That legislation and those rules may be more restrictive than in markets in which you already invest.

1.14. 10% Market loss

Within any given reporting period (default quarterly) you will be informed if the market value of your discretionary managed portfolio drops by increments of 10% below the market value last reported to you.

1.15. 10% Absolute loss

Where your portfolio contains a leveraged asset monitoring will be against the market value of the asset at the point the loan or leverage is drawn. You will be advised if the market value of your asset drops by increments of 10% below the market value of the asset at the point the loan / leverage is drawn.

Where your portfolio contains a contingent liability transaction monitoring will be against the market value of the asset against the purchase cost of the asset. You will be advised if the market value of your asset drops by increments of 10% below the purchase cost. A forward foreign exchange transaction not entered into for the purposes of hedging a portfolio will be considered a contingent liability transaction.

Unless otherwise requested by the client Saranac Partners Europe will consider all contingent liability transactions to have notification of loss threshold of 10% of market value.

2. Product Specific Investment Risks

All investment products carry risks and some products inherently contain more risks than others. You must ensure you understand the risks associated with products in which you invest. Saranac Partners Europe views an asset's risk to be made up of a number of factors. These factors give rise to two key characteristics we assess when rating the risk level of an asset:

- Capital loss i.e. what is the potential for decline in the value of an asset to cause a high level of capital loss. In the case of some derivatives or structured products this loss could well exceed the initial investment; and
- Volatility i.e. how much the asset may fluctuate in price or income over a given time given its inherent characteristics.

We have summarised below some of the specific risks linked to certain asset types. These are not intended as an exhaustive list, but as an illustration. The specific risks associated with a given investment or opportunity will be explained to you prior to any investment and included in any recommendation we make to you. It is your responsibility to be aware of all the risks associated with an investment.

If at any point you are:

- a. unclear on the risks associated with your investments or a prospective opportunity, asset or investment; or
- b. feel your Risk Profile is not representative of the level of risk you are willing to accept you should contact your Client Adviser in the first instance, who will clarify the specific risks of an asset with you or review your risk categorisation and suitability, where appropriate.

2.1. Equity securities and equity funds

Ownership of an equity security represents a direct stake in the underlying company concerned and is generally considered higher risk.

Non euro-denominated equities are subject to currency risk which exposes investors to additional risks related to the relevant exchange rate.

Equity funds are invested entirely in equities and, while this spreads the risk wider than investing in a single company, will be exposed to the overall market.

In accordance with Order ECC/2316/2015 on product information and categorisation, Saranac Partners Europe informs you that equity instruments are classified in terms of risk as:

This number identifies the risk of the product, with 1/6 indicating lower risk, and 6/6 indicating higher risk.

2.2. Smaller companies

Shares in smaller companies may have low liquidity. These shares may not be readily sold, and could therefore be difficult to realise. Furthermore, such shares may trade at very low prices, a feature which is often characterised by significant price volatility associated with such stocks.

2.3. Debt securities and fixed income funds

The value of debt securities (or "bonds") can generally be expected to be more stable than that of equity investments. However, in some circumstances, particularly when interest rate expectations are changing, the value of most bonds may become more volatile.

The value of a bond can be adversely affected by a number of factors, such as:

- a. The issuer's credit rating, which reflects their ability to repay the amounts payable when they fall due;
- b. The market expectations of future interest and inflation rates;
- c. The amount of interest payable (the coupon);
- d. The length of time until the debt falls due for repayment; or
- e. (The seniority of a bond within the capital structure of a company, and the quality of any security taken to secure the relevant obligor's obligations in relation to such bond.

Bonds issued by major governments or supranational bodies tend to be lower risk investments, while the risks of debt securities issued by other types of issuer (such as those with emerging market or corporate issuers) can vary greatly.

If an issuer is in financial difficulty, there is an increased risk that they may default on their repayment obligations. In this event, little or no capital may be recovered and any amounts repaid may take a significant amount of time, and effort to recover.

Some bonds are structured with embedded options and similar features. These bonds are considered complex bonds in nature. The impact of these structures can impact returns to investors and increase risks associated with such an investment.

2.4. Alternative investments

2.4.1. Unregulated funds

Many alternative investments are structured as unregulated funds. This means that standards of operation, administration and management can be different from those applicable to regulated products and in many cases will be less stringent. It is important to understand that it may be difficult to liquidate or sell an investment of this type, or to identify an independently determined fair valuation for an interest in this kind of vehicle. It is important that you are familiar with the terms of, and risks associated with, any fund that you invest in.

2.4.2. Physical property or property development funds

As a result of the illiquid nature of real property, it may take time to realise any investment made even when exposure is by way of an investment in a property fund. All real property is subject to local risks which may be unique in nature, which may be caused by factors such as the prevailing legal, economic, environmental or political circumstances particularly in the case of property development. Returns available from real property funds may be affected by leverage. These funds may be issued in regulated or unregulated form - see 2.4.1 above.

2.4.3. Hedge funds

Hedge funds employ a wide variety of different trading strategies in order to produce returns. Strategies may range from lower risk absolute return funds up to high risk or speculative funds which make use of extensive leverage in an attempt to maximise returns from their investment strategy. Investments undertaken by hedge funds may be narrowly based around a specific type of asset or trading strategy, and the returns experienced by investors in these funds may be adversely affected by very specific market or industry circumstances. It is therefore important to understand the type of strategy and investment to be used in any hedge fund prior to investment. These funds may be regulated or unregulated - see 2.4.1 above.

2.4.4. Private equity funds

Private equity funds commonly invest in equity or equity like investments in companies that are not openly traded via a public investment exchange. They may be small start-up companies with little or no proven track record. As a result these funds may have unique risk factors which should be detailed in their prospectus or offering documents. These funds may be issued in regulated or unregulated form. Private equity funds require a long term commitment. They may require you to commit to several tranches of capital payment and offer no, or limited, redemption rights. Failure to meet subsequent payments may result in the loss of the payments made previously. They are often illiquid with no secondary market making selling the investment difficult.

2.5. Derivatives

Derivatives are financial instruments which can be used either for low cost risk management purposes or for achieving speculative exposure to specific economic risks. Before investing in, or making use of, derivatives you should take care to ensure you understand the volatility, margin calls and potential of capital loss and, more generally, whether transacting is appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances including the specific purpose for which this investment is being made. You may lose more than the amount of your initial investment.

2.5.1. Futures or forwards

Transactions in futures or forwards require a contracting party to either buy ("long") or to sell ("short") a specified amount of an asset at expiry at a pre-determined price. These transactions usually carry a high degree of risk, which may be accentuated by gearing or leverage. An investor is exposed to the movement of a proportionately large amount of the underlying assets in return for a small upfront payment. These types of investment may also be contingent liability transactions and you may be required to make additional margin payments to maintain the contract. It is important that you understand the potential amounts you could be liable for, and are comfortable that you will be able to afford to pay such amounts when they fall due if required to do so.

2.5.2. Options or warrants

There are many different varieties of options and warrants with differing characteristics and subject to different conditions. Before investing in or becoming exposed to options or warrants, you should obtain appropriate advice as to the risks (whether legal, tax or otherwise) that may be applicable to you.

2.5.3. Buying options or warrants

These contracts offer a time limited right to subscribe for or dispose of a defined amount of an asset in the future at a predefined price. The maximum loss is limited to the amount paid for the contract, plus any commission or other transaction charges. Buying options therefore involves less risk than selling options. It is essential for anyone who is considering becoming exposed to such contracts to understand that the right to subscribe (which a warrant confers) or right to buy/ sell (which an option confers) is invariably limited in time with the consequence that if the investor fails to exercise this right within the predetermined time-scale, then the investment becomes worthless. The volatility of these assets can be extremely high. Furthermore, if you buy a call option and you later exercise the option, you will acquire the underlying asset, and may be directly exposed to risks associated with such asset.

2.5.4. Granting options

By granting an option, you accept a legal obligation to purchase or sell the underlying asset at a predefined price, regardless of whether or not the market price has moved away from the exercise price. If you grant (write) an option, the risk involved is generally considerably greater than buying options. Writers of options may be liable for margin to maintain their position and losses may be sustained. If you already own the underlying asset that you have contracted to sell (known as "covered call options") the risk is reduced. If you do not own the underlying asset (known as "uncovered call options") the risk can be unlimited. Only experienced persons should contemplate granting uncovered options, and then only after securing full details of the applicable conditions and potential risk exposure.

2.5.5. Contracts for difference (Swaps)

Contracts for difference are similar to futures or forwards. However, unlike other futures and options, these contracts can only be settled in cash. Investing in a contract for difference carries similar risks as investing in a future and you should be aware and understand the risk warnings set out in paragraph (2.5.1 above). Contracts for difference may operate on a margined basis, under which buyers do not pay the full premium at the time they purchase it. In this situation you may subsequently be called upon to pay margin and if you fail to do so, your position may be closed or liquidated in the same way as a futures position.

2.5.6. Over the counter derivatives ("OTC Derivatives")

It may not always be apparent that a derivative is traded on or off-exchange. As more fully described in paragraph (1.11 above) regarding OTC transactions generally, some off-exchange products may be highly illiquid, and many such products are not transferable and there is no exchange market on which to close out an existing position. It may not be possible to liquidate a position held in such a contract, or to accurately assess its value or exposure to risk. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime and you will be open to the counterparty risk of the issuer.

2.6. Structured products

Structured products are products which provide economic exposure to a wide range of underlying asset classes, the returns on which are linked to underlying investments or assets and are often modified by bespoke contractual terms. Investors should be aware that early redemption or secondary market trading could result in a capital loss, even where the product terms protect or guarantee return of the nominal amount purchased. These products may not be readily realisable, which means that it may be difficult to liquidate or sell a product of this type. These products tend to be complex leading to difficulties in valuation. Moreover, the purchaser is subject to counterparty risk.

2.7. Forward FX transactions

Forward FX is a specific type of derivative and as such carries all the risks associated with a derivative in addition to inherent currency exchange rate risk and interest rate risk. FX forwards are normally traded on a margin basis and may be highly leveraged products giving rise to potentially large positions on maturity. They place legal obligations on clients that must be fully understood. FX forwards can be used to speculate on fluctuations in a foreign currency thereby creating investment risk. Saranac Partners Europe considers these type of transactions to be contingent liability transactions.

FX forwards may also be used to reduce investment risk by creating FX contracts that offset fluctuations in the value of assets held in a foreign currency.

2.8. Structured deposits

Structured deposits are a combination of a traditional savings account and a stock market investment, where returns are linked to the performance of a particular index or indices. While the capital is protected, the returns can be uncertain or zero and the return can be less than the rise in the relevant index, reflecting the protected nature of the product. Structured deposits are considered complex products.

- 14.3. Saranac Partners Europe, in order to rationalize asset purchase and sale orders, may group transactions from different clients within the limits established in the regulations in force. In order to avoid a possible conflict of interest between clients arising from this or other actions, Saranac Partners Europe has the criteria, procedures and order management systems that allow rapid and correct execution and subsequent allocation, so as not to prejudice the interests of any client when carrying out transactions for several clients. These procedures and systems include objective criteria for the pro rata distribution of transactions among clients, and for the resolution of possible conflicts of interest in general. If grouped orders are issued for a given security and, for whatever reason, the entire order cannot be executed, or if the securities covered by the order are acquired or transferred at different prices, Saranac Partners Europe shall pro-rate the securities acquired or transferred among the clients concerned, according to the volume of the order corresponding to each client. Saranac Partners Europe undertakes to apply these objective criteria in all cases, which will only be modified after prior notification to and acceptance by the client.

- 14.4. In this latter case, the amount of the loan or the amount drawn down against the credit must be paid into the account identified in the Client Application Form.
- 14.8. Saranac Partners Europe may only deviate from the agreed general investment criteria

This valuation shall be based on the latest information provided by various entities at the date of generation of the periodic information, which in some cases may not coincide with that of the last day of the period indicated in the report. For the valuation of financial assets, market prices obtained from reliable sources of information are used, without prejudice to the use of any other source, as well as, where appropriate, the website of the issuer or supplier of the product, when deemed appropriate to faithfully reflect the price of the financial instrument. For assets that are denominated in a currency other than EURO the counter-value shall be fixed at the relevant exchange rate. The main sources for the valuation of assets will depend on the type of asset, the multilateral system or the market in which they are listed. Furthermore, in cases where the market price cannot be obtained, securities or financial instruments shall be valued at fair value by applying an alternative system consisting of obtaining the value information from other sources.
- 14.10. In order to enable the client to assess the result of the management of the managed portfolio, in the event that no specific benchmark or reference parameter has been established for the comparison of the performance of the managed portfolio, Saranac Partners Europe will include in the periodic information sent to the client the performance of the indicators of the fixed income and equity markets, so that the client may assess the result obtained by Saranac Partners Europe in the management of the portfolio, except in those management modalities for which another method of assessment and comparison is established.
- 14.11. Saranac Partners Europe is expressly exonerated by the client from any liability arising from the ultimate economic result of the management, and the client expressly assumes any possible operating losses that may arise as a result of the evolution of the markets or as a consequence of the risk inherent in any investment in securities.
- 14.12. The client may withdraw cash or assets from its account, restrict or modify the assets over which portfolio management is extended or remove them from the management regime provided for in these Terms of Business, informing Saranac Partners Europe, where appropriate, sufficiently in advance so that the corresponding transaction can be carried out. Likewise, the client shall notify Saranac Partners Europe sufficiently in advance of any act of disposal or encumbrance on the securities, assets or cash in its portfolio.

39.4. Where Transaction Advice Fee and Reception and Transmission of Clients' Orders fee is to be charged in a different currency to the currency of calculation the FX rate will either be the end of day spot fx rate for the trade date or the rate for any associated spot fx completed on the same day as the transaction.

43. Closing accounts

- 43.1. If you terminate your relationship with us, you will owe us any outstanding fees and charges up to the date that our relationship is terminated in accordance with the terms of your Client Agreement. [To the extent that it is practicable this will be the date stated by us as the Termination Date.]
- 43.2. For investment accounts with strategic custodian relationships the accounts will remain open with them and it will be your sole responsibility to instruct them regarding your assets. If you request that we manage the transition of your assets from such custodian to another provider as a termination service then our fees for this service will be agreed with you and will cease when the final asset has been moved.

44. Variations to charges and fees

- 44.1. Your fees and charges will be reviewed at least annually. Fees and charges may be reassessed more frequently, in circumstances including:

 - b. a change in Regulatory Requirements;

- c. a change to the costs we incur in carrying out the activity for which the charge is being made; or
 - d. failure to meet an AUM or revenue commitment made to secure a specific fee level.

We may also change our charges for a valid reason which is not set out above. Any change or new charge will be a fair proportion, as reasonably estimated by us, of the impact of the underlying change on the costs that we incur and will be notified by us to you in writing as soon as is reasonably practicable in advance of the change being made.

45. VAT

- 45.1. Depending on the fee type and your individual tax circumstances certain fees will be subject to Spanish Value Added Tax (“IVA”). This will be made clear on your Fee Profile.
- 45.2. If the IVA rate changes, we will adjust the IVA you pay from the date of the change.
- 45.3. If as a result of any change of Spanish law relating to IVA, any change in interpretation of law relating to IVA it appears, in our reasonable opinion, that any of the services are or have become, exempt of IVA, we will cease to charge IVA on that service, with effect from the date of our notification to you of the event.
